Assault Case Settled.

The case of the state against Elmer and Elroy Lee came up in Justice Helke's court in Nekoosa on Monday, the complaining witness being Norman Wood, who had been cut up somewhat in a scuffle that occurred in a Nekoosa saloon.

It must be that the combatants have bored the hatchet, for the charge was withdrawn and the case settled by the defendants paying the costs in the case up to date.

Will Feed on Venison.

The Elks will hold their annual venison feed this Wednesday evening, when it is expected that there will be a full attendance. The venison is being furnished by members of the order who have been up hunting lately.

Chicken Pie Supper.

The ladies of the east side Congregational Aid Society will serve a chicken pie supper in connection with the Christmas sale on Friday, Dec. 14th at 6:30. Tickets 35 cents. Advertisement.

County Road Commissioner.

At the meeting of the county board held last week Louis J. Amundson was elected county commissioner of highways for a term of three years, the salary being fixed at $900 per year and expenses.

Mr. Amundson has acted in the capacity of county highway commissioner during the past year and during that time has demonstrated his ability along the line of road building to the satisfaction of all concerned, so that the board has made a wise selection.

Nearly every town in the county will build some road next year, so that the commissioner will be kept busy pretty much all summer.

Thanksgiving Day.

Tomorrow, Thursday, Nov. 28th is the day which has been set aside by the American people for the purpose of keeping up the price of turkeys and incidentally narrowing their financial resources by their inability to purchase the goods they need.

Some three hundred years ago when the Pilgrims first established Thanksgiving day, it is probable that a man realized more plainly that he had something to be thankful for than he does today, and a good square meal was a thing to be looked forward to for some time.

When a fellow had to do his plowing with a rifle slung to his shoulder, and went to church with his shooting iron under his arm, and spent half his evenings mauling bullets for the extermination of the noble red man, the mere fact that he was alive at all was enough to cause him to be provident and to cause him to offer up heart felt thanks for his being still adorned in his wigwam in a decorated camp.

Nowadays a man can go out and get "shot," and if he don't keep it up too long, the only ill effects he will feel will be a slight "head" next morning, but in those days when a fellow got shot it was flowers and a mournful procession to the well stocked cemetery nearby.

Hanging potatoes in those days was almost as dangerous as hunting deer in northern Wisconsin at the present time, and a man never knew when some careless redskin was going to take a crack at him from the adjacent woods and punch a few holes in his outcrops.

Of course turkeys were not worth 25c a pound in those days, and all you had to do was to shoulder your trusty blunderbuss, load her up with about half a pint of powder, throw in a couple of handfuls of shingle nails, and away forth to the wood.

Then if an Indian did not get you before you got a turkey you had every reason to feel thankful. Sometimes it was the Indian that observed Thanksgiving day instead of you, but then that was only an incident that added variety and excitement to what otherwise might have been a humdrum existence. And they say that variety is the spice of life.

They say that the Pilgrim Fathers were more religious than we are today. Well, it stood them in hand to day. When a fellow has to carry a rifle with one hand and carry a rifle in the other in order to keep from being poked from the roadside, he had better have his religious accounts posted right up to date, for he can never tell when he will be called on for a trial balance. Still, in spite of their religious fervor, they generally had their shooting iron within easy reach. While they believed that they were the chosen people, all right, they did not believe in saddling their much responsibility onto their maker, which was probably a wise idea on their part.

But times have certainly changed in three hundred years. The brouse gobble of our forefathers has been replaced by the turkey of uncertain vintage. It takes more than a handful of powder and an ounce of birdshot to get one of these latter birds, and as you are doing away with the last remains along about Saturday noon you wonder what you ever got him for, anyway, and take a solemn oath never to get another. But don't let that discourage you. When another year rolls around you will do it all over again.

It may be that you have a kind of a grudge on this year and think you have nothing to be thankful for simply because Bill Taft did not get a look in at the last election, but you should remember that blessings often come in disguise, and look so to be even that it does not look so with you. Then bear in mind that with five men running somebody how much to get left. Just think how bad Teddy would have been had he had Teddy got in, or Debs, or Cahan.

You can certainly find something to be thankful for if it is only the fact that you are alive. Many men who have been dead for years have not found it out yet and go along and continue to be thankful just the same.

The horny handed farmer Doth take his hatchet now, For he must kill the ancient hen— And dent the gobble's brow.

—Edgar Allan Poe

Two hundred and ninety-nine years ago our Pilgrim fathers loaded their trusty flint lock persnaders and made into the forests of Massachusetts to gather a few hundred pounds of wild turkey. When with the true American sense of political protection they prepared a glorious feast and sent out invitations to all of the massacred Indian chiefs in that ward.

The stalwart men fell for the racket and came forth with a vim unparalleled in history. They made a right lusty meal and learned how to pray, and blizzarded back to the woods when they had left, these mighty Pilgrims gave forth a joyous shout and lifted their double breasted feet to the limbs of the trees, so violently did they rejoice. For the silent and pompous nosed red man had smoked the fogus of peace with them and Governor Bradford had won his pagan soul by a wide plurality.

And they gave thanks that the turkeys were spring turkeys, not turkeys of that spring, so the great chief had not gotten themselves and it had not been necessary to send out into the woods during prayer to pluck more of the feathered fowl. And they looked with joy upon the pies that

A BELOIT MAN TRIES SUICIDE

Former Resident of Grand Rapids is in a Serious Condition

Beloit, Wis.—D. B. Worthington, postmaster and principal owner of the Beloit Daily News, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself Friday night. The bullet was fired against his skull over the right ear, but glanced, and the wound is not regarded as serious.

The shooting took place in his office. Mr. Worthington had called up friends at the Elks' club, one block away, and told them they had better come over to his office as something was going to happen. When the men reached the postoffice they found the postmaster lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his head. He was taken to a hospital, where his condition is serious.

Mr. Worthington has been independent over business matters of late, and his wife and children are said to have left him. They departed Friday for California, saying they had gone for good.

Mr. Worthington has been a resident of Beloit fifteen years and in his second term as postmaster. He has lately purchased the controlling interest in the News, which he sold a few years ago.

David B. Worthington, the man mentioned above, was born and raised in Grand Rapids, having learned the printing trade here. After going to Beloit he took charge of the News of that city and by his untiring efforts and energy made a success of it. He had visited in this city several times since he left here and has many friends who will sincerely regret to learn of the tragedy that has overtaken him.

Youthful Depredators.

When Atty. John Jeffrey returned from his hunting trip last week he was considerably pained and surprised to find that his house had been pretty thoroughly ransacked during his absence and a number of articles stolen and others broken and destroyed. A window in the house had been broken where an entry was effected, and a number of dishes, knives and forks, silverware and other small articles taken, while numerous things about the house had been broken and destroyed.

It was evident from the appearance of things that some youngsters had been making their headquarters in the house for several days, and what they had not been able to carry away means of getting to town except by team, while these who would be located along a road running direct between this city and Marshfield now have the advantage of two railroads that they can travel over in windy times.

A well built macadam road between this city and Marshfield would be a nice thing, and if it went by way of Pittsville would prove of value to a large number of people.

1912-13 Wisconsin Dairy School

One hundred and forty-six students are enrolled in the Dairy School for 1912-13 of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Following is a list of the men from this county:

A. Klonowski, Rudolph, Wood County; L. M. Lowell, Vesper, Wood County; W. Maxwell, Marshfield, Wood County; and J. D. Nelson, Marshfield, Wood County.

Every year finds more young men attending the University for the purpose of acquiring technical knowledge of both dairying and farming, which would indicate that the farming community is beginning to realize that book learning is of some use even on the farm.

It is only a few years since the average practical farmer laughed when these book learned agriculturists were mentioned, but things are gradually changing and they are beginning to realize that farming is a science of more than ordinary exactness, and that in order to get the best out of the soil it is just as necessary to know what is being done in this line as in any other business.

Mason-Cottrill

Miss Gertrude Mason and Dr. S. E. Cottrill, both of this city, were married Tuesday morning at the Catholic parsonage, Rev. W. A. Reding performing the ceremony. They were accompanied by Miss Loretta Mallory of this city and James Cottrill of New London. They left on the early train Tuesday for New London to visit with relatives of the doctor's for a few days and upon their return will make their home in this city.

Both of the contracting parties to this marriage are well and favorably known in this city, the bride being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mason, and is a most estimable young lady of charming manner and pleasing appearance. The groom has been a practicing veterinarian in our city a number of years past, during which time he has made a large number of friends in this city and vicinity. The friends in unites with their many friends in extending the heartiest of congratulations and wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

Arrested for Burglary

George Wakely was arrested this morning charged with having entered the store of The Natwick Electric Company and stealing a number of lamps. The place was entered on Monday night and a number of lamp globes taken. Wakely has not had his hearing at this time.

Mrs. Howard Ross and Jessie Burke of Stevens Point were guests of Miss Georgia Ridgman over Sunday.

Death at Port Edwards.

Basel Longdon of the village of Port Edwards died on Saturday from the effects of an attack of pleurisy. He was 76 years of age and is survived by a wife and four children.

Mrs. Geo. E. Hoskinson left last week for Manitowish where she will visit with her daughter for a time.

"Tess of the Storm Country."

This offering to lovers of comedy drama that has been winning countless laurels and the admiration of thousands of theatre goers in other cities where it has appeared so far will appear at Dalk's Theatre on Friday, Dec. 9 is now in its second season and is proclaimed by many of the most splendid stage presentations seen in a number of years. Those who have witnessed the play were spell-bound by its dramatic force and intensity, and delighted by its quaint humor, and amusing character sketches, cleverly portraying all the many sides of human nature, the strong wild passions, the almost unimaginable self sacrifice of woman's love, are brought out in detail by the more than clever cast. In conjunction with all this the management claims in a play of like character. The most elaborate ever attempted at the Dalk's Theatre, with the exception of the Jones and Crane, twenty the sole intention of surpassing anything they have ever attempted. Advertisement.

The Commission Legislation.

A bill will be presented at the next session of the legislature to establish the commission form of government for counties. It is proposed to abolish the old form of county board government and replace it with five commissioners. The new plan is favored by its advocates, who contend that the present system of a board of supervisors, one from each precinct in the county, is cumbersome, inadequate and expensive.

It is estimated that the total amount paid to supervisors in this state for services at the annual sessions of the county boards is over $50,000. It is hoped, however, that if the legislature does adopt the commission legislation it will be with the view of dividing counties into commission districts. Three districts with a commissioner from each, and two elected from the county at large, would probably result in giving different sections of the counties fair representation on the board.

Telephone Changes at Nekoosa.

The Wood County Telephone Company is preparing to make a number of changes at Nekoosa. The exchange has grown enough so that the present switchboard is not large enough to permit any new phones being installed, and it is the intention to replace it with a new one with a capacity of 150 lines.

It is also the intention to employ an operator during the day, so that the service will be more prompt than it has been heretofore. It is also the intention of the company to lease an office room where the switchboard will be installed and the business of the company conducted.

It is expected that the change will be quite beneficial to the service down there.

Here's a Real Sportman.

Every sportsman ought to have a warm place in his heart for this gentleman, W. L. Hanson of Poy-sippi, who advertises in the paper as follows: "This is a special invitation to sportsmen and hunters to come to my ranch one and one half miles northwest of Poy-sippi, at any time—day or night—and hunt, fish or trap to your heart's content. To all those coming from a distance I will furnish free lunch." How vastly different is this kindly gentleman from those who take up at every red on their fence in bad letters: "Forbidden property." "No trespassing."

Short Course Agricultural School Opens Next Monday.

Indications are that a general enrollment will greet those in charge of the Corn and Grain School which is to open here next Monday. Advance enrollments are good, but it is plain that none will be turned away, so bring your fee to the school Monday morning.

The Bijou Theater has been selected as the place for general sessions. Let all be on hand as early as possible Monday morning.

NEWS FROM NEARBY PLACES.

An unusual skin grafting operation in which the skin of a dog's stomach was used in place of skin grafted from a human being was performed by Dr. Carl E. Anderson upon Mrs. H. W. Johnson, wife of the postmaster of Menomonie, at a Chicago hospital.

The operation was necessary in the treatment of a rodent ulcer on the left elbow.

It may be interesting to Plainfield citizens to know that the first returns of the recent election, flashed on the bulletin boards at Milwaukee, came from Plainfield, Waukesha county, on election night. To the thousands who were watching for election news in Milwaukee, Plainfield was the first place in the state to have their returns flashed before them, giving the result of her vote that day at 6:15 o'clock. Necedah Republican—Miss Ella Gleason was the victim of a terrible burning accident on Saturday last when she nearly lost her life. Ella was blacking up the kitchen stove with a prepared liquid preparation, and a fire in the stove had the blacking to a point where it exploded. The unfortunate girl was painfully and seriously burned about the head and chest. The explosion set fire to curtains and a rug. The girl, with clothing still as she, pumped water with which to put out the fire in the house before attending to her own injuries. At this writing she is suffering intense pain, and her recovery is yet a question of doubt.

Jacob Hammel, pioneer Appleton business man, who retired in 1909, died suddenly at 6 o'clock Saturday of heart failure. Mr. Hammel celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary on Sept. 8 surrounded by his family of four generations. As a member of the firms of D. Hammel & Co., and later Jacob Hammel & Co., it is claimed he sold more horses in Wisconsin, Minnesota and upper Michigan from 1890 to 1903 than any one else. He was well known all over the three states. He was a brother of David Hammel, former mayor of Appleton, and father of Leopold Hammel, a Milwaukee attorney.

Marshfield Herald.—Abe Vanderburg of Nellville was brought to this city Monday and taken to the hospital where as present he is recovering from a gunshot wound in the head and face which befell him the day previous while hunting partridges. He and a companion, by the name of Olson were standing near each other when a partridge flew up and at which Olson fired. He did not see Vanderburg who was in direct line, the charge of shot striking him in the face and head, one of the missiles penetrating the eye. At last accounts the attending physicians believed the unfortunate on the road to recovery and that the sight of the eye would be saved.

One of the largest timber deals ever recorded in this part of the state was consummated this week when the Mason-Donaldson Lumber company of this city disposed to Montgomery Ward & Company of Chicago over ten thousand acres of heavily timbered land. The tract is located just north of State Line in 44-39. The sale had been in negotiation for several weeks. It is probable that Montgomery Ward & Company will log this timber and ship it to Rhinelander to be sawed. If this is done it may be the means of the firm establishing a large box manufacturing plant in this city.—Rhinelander News North.

Got Big Damages.

Stevens Point Journal.—The trial of the case of Eva M. Jeffers, administratrix of the estate of Louis Jeffers, deceased, against the Green Bay and Western Railway Co., which had been on trial since last Tuesday afternoon, was concluded on Friday, the jury returning a special verdict. It will be remembered that this case was tried before Judge Webb in 1910, at which time he took the case from the jury and directed a verdict for the defendant. The case was then appealed to the supreme court, where the decision of the court was reversed and the case remanded for a new trial.

In the special verdict returned on Friday the jury found, among other things, that at the time of the death of Louis Jeffers, when employed by the defendant company in the capacity of switchman at Green Bay, Wisconsin, in his last order to Jeffers, failed to use ordinary care for the safety of Jeffers and thereby contributed to his death. Also that Foreman Gallagher, by not locating Jeffers, just before giving the stop signal, contributed to his death.

Mrs. T. J. Cooper visited with friends in Stevens Point on Thursday.

Miss Della Stoddard of Merrill visited with friends in the city over Sunday.

Arthur Sickles was confined to his home several days the past week with a severe cold.

The Johnson & Hill Company will close their store at 10 o'clock on Thursday to remain closed the remainder of the day.

Mrs. Robert Larson of the town of Port Edwards was prostrated with a stroke of paralysis while shopping in Cohen Bros. store on Monday. A doctor was summoned and she was taken to her home where she is getting along nicely.

Prof. Solvewick delivered a lecture on Chemistry Monday evening in the St. Francis Moravian church. Prof. you Gelten rendered several selections on his violin. Both the lecture and music were greatly enjoyed by the large audience present. A hearty "Come again," is extended to these gentlemen.

Prizes for Christmas Seals.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26, 1912. (Special)—Prizes aggregating in value several thousand dollars will be offered by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association again this year to stimulate an increased interest in the sale of Red Cross Seals.

The entire list which was made public by Otto F. Bradley, Campaign Manager of the association, today has been donated by interested people who appreciate the value to the public of the health campaign which the seal sale finances.

The principal prizes have a direct connection with public health and are made the basis of an educational campaign as well as a stimulus for a large sale. To give every city an equal chance, the competition is placed on a per capita basis. The following are the principal prizes:

Two "Tee" stationary vacuum cleaners, one to the city or village between 2,000 and 1,000 population making the highest per capita sale of seals, and one to the leading city above 10,000 population. Donated by the Tase Company of Milwaukee.

Four "Wolverine" public drinking fountains, one to the highest city in each of the following sections:

(1) Below 500 population, (2) 500 to 7,000, (3) 7,000 to 15,000 and (4) 15,000 and above.

Seven "Spring Maid" drinking fountains, one for villages below 500 population, one for villages between 500 and 1,000 population and five for rural and state graded schools of the second class.

One handsome $125.00 "Lansing" drinking fountain to the city or village above 1,000 population making the highest per capita sale.

The entire list of expensive fountains have been donated by the Gier and Dail Manufacturing Company of Lansing, Michigan.

Three "Melotish" Stereopticons, one for the city or village between 1,000 and 8,000 population making the highest per capita sale, one to the Catholic parochial schools and one to the rural schools. They are all donated by the Melotish Stereopticon Company of Chicago.

A statute of any representation to be chosen, for Catholic parochial schools, was donated by Diederich & Schaefer Co., Milwaukee. One hundred and fifty subscriptions to St. Nicholas magazine will be awarded to children in the rural and Catholic parochial schools. Donated by The Century Company, New York.

According to the rules of competition, a city or school will not be given more than one first prize. In this way a great many will receive awards.

—"Tess of the Storm Country" is a play that brings one close to the thrills of human nature and heart interest, it is easily understood, the scenes, incidents, and characters are such as are encountered in actual life, and not in fancy of the dreamer or theorist. Such plays are the ones that get close to the springs of interest and appreciation, simply because they are true to life and natural. They do not deal with thoughts and features that are beyond the ken of some and bring distorted pictures to others. These are the kind of plays that live and grow in popularity, and one of the few in this class is "Tess." It is an impressive dramatization of one of the most brilliant stories ever written. Grace Miller White wrote the book, but it remained for Rupert Hughes to prepare it for the stage, and Norma Jones and Crane the producers have given the play a most complete equipment of everything necessary to properly portray the scenes along the shores of mysterious Lake Cayuga. Will be at Daly's Theatre Friday, Dec. 6th. Advertisement.

The principal prizes have a direct connection with public health and are made the basis of an educational campaign as well as a stimulus for a large sale. To give every city an equal chance, the competition is placed on a per capita basis. The following are the principal prizes: Two "Tues" stationary vacuum cleaners, one to the city or village between 2,000 and 1,000 population making the highest per capita sale of seals, and one to the leading city above 10,000 population. Donated by the Tace Company of Milwaukee.

Four "Wolverine" public drinking fountains, one to the highest city in each of the following sections: (1) Below 3000 population, (2) 3,000 to 7,000, (3) 7,000 to 15,000 and (4) 15,000 and above.

Seven "Spring Maid" drinking fountains, one for villages below 500 population, one for villages between 500 and 1,000 population and five for rural and state graded schools of the second class.

One handsome $125.00 "Lansing" drinking fountain to the city or village above 1,500 population making the highest per capita sale.

The entire list of expensive fountains have been donated by the Gier and Dahl Manufacturing Company of Lansing, Michigan.

Three "McIntosh" Stereopticons, one for the city or village between 1,000 and 8,000 population making the highest per capita sale, one to the Catholic parochial schools and one to the rural schools. They are all donated by the McIntosh Stereopticon Company of Chicago.

A statute of any representation to be chosen, for Catholic parochial schools, was donated by Diederich & Schaefer Co., Milwaukee. One hundred and fifty subscriptions to St. Nicholas magazine will be awarded to children in the rural and Catholic parochial schools. Donated by The Century Company, New York.

According to the rules of competition, a city or school will not be given more than one first prize. In this way a great many will receive awards.

—"Toss of the Storm Country" is a play that brings one close to the throne of human nature and heart interest, it is easily understood, the scenes, incidents, and characters, such as are encountered in actual life, and not in fancy of the dreamer or theorist. Such plays are the ones that get close to the springs of interest and appreciation, simply because they are true to life and natural. They do not deal with thoughts and features that are beyond the ken of some and bring distorted pictures to others. These are the kind of plays that live and grow in popularity, and one of the few in this class is "Toss." It is an impressive dramatization of one of the most brilliant stories ever written. Grace Miller White wrote the book, but it remained for Rupert Hughes to prepare it for the stage, and Messrs. Jones and Crane the producers have given the play a most complete equipment of everything necessary to properly portray the scenes along the shores of mysterious Lake Cayuga. Will be at Daly's Theatre Friday, Dec. 6th. Advertisement.

The report of the Board of Public Works of proposed assessments in the matter of condemnation of Oak street was presented and adopted by unanimous vote, the clerk calling the roll.

The undersigned members of the Board of Public Works, of the City of Grand Rapids do hereby make this our final and complete Report on the Assessments of Damages and Benefits in the matter of Condemnation of a strip of land twenty (20) feet in width northwesterly and southeasterly the entire length of lots Nos. One (1) Two (2), Three (3) and Four (4) of block Thirty (30) of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, for the purpose of widening Oak street, in said City of Grand Rapids, to-wit:

After considering the damages to the lot owned by the John McCarthy Estate, and the benefits to said lot on account of the widening of said Oak street, we have awarded to said John McCarthy Estate, the sum of $250.00, as the excess of damages over benefits on lot number One (1), block Thirty (30) aforesaid.

After considering the damages to the lot owned by Elizabeth Conroy, and the benefits to said lot on account of the widening of said Oak street, we have awarded to said Elizabeth Conroy, the sum of $1700.00, as the excess of damages over benefits on lot number Four (4), of block Thirty (30).

HOW TO USE ODDS AND ENDS
Handy Ways to Utilize Remnants From the Bargain Counter.

Out of odd lengths of ribbon or half yards of satin a stock of little bows and cravats can be made which provide such an indispensable finish to the jacket or a lace shirt. The merest strips of ribbon can be converted into the little posies of mixed flowers which can be worn in the center of the corsage or tucked into the coat front. Purple ribbon can be turned into roses, pink, red and crimson into rosebuds and berries, blue into forget-me-nots and green into leaves and stems, while other shades are equally useful, roses, poppies and jessamine being easily carried out in colors which do not legitimately belong to them. To make the berries, which are so popular just now, all that is required in addition to the remnant of satin or ribbon is a little cotton wool, which should be made into the tiny tufts. Each one should be attached around a "croc" of wire and then covered with the material. These posies can afterward be massed together to represent elderberries or ivy with foliage of green satin or silk.

A few yards of banded net can be converted even at home into a useful tunic which will entirely metamorphose an evening gown. The bottom of the tunic can be edged with embroidery or fringe which has been sold probably at a fifth of its original price.

A clever dressmaker can frequently join strips of embroidery together, hiding the seams with a motif or tassel, while short remnants of the same pattern can often be picked up for considerably less than if the trimmings were all in one piece.
